Title: River Boy: The Story of Mark Twain

Author: William Anderson

Illustrator: Dan Andreasen

Publisher: HarperCollins, 2003

Pages: 40

Summary

"Ste-e-e-eamboat's a-comin'!" Along the banks of the great Mississippi River, a young boy named Samuel Clemens raced to the docks whenever he heard that familiar cry. He dreamed of exploring the world beyond his river town. Little did he know that one day he would become the famous writer Mark Twain and write about his boyhood adventures along the bustling river waterfront in the classic stories The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn and The Adventures of Tom Sawyer. Sam's exploits took him from the printing presses of the Hannibal Courier to the decks of the steamboats that travel the mighty Mississippi, and even to the Wild West. Noted historian William Anderson tells the colorful story of Sam's life as he grew from a mischievous boy into the enterprising author. Dan Andreasen's fresh, vibrant paintings capture the spirit of the storyteller who will live on forever as one of America's literary icons. This picture biography is a very appealing introduction to Sam Clemens' life. It shows how influential the Mississippi River was and makes clear connections between Sam's life and his writing.

Classroom Connections

- Have students trace Samuel Clemens' travels throughout his life on a map of the world.
- Have students research and list other important events that have occurred on dates when Halley's Comet appeared (Sam Clemens' birthday).
- When Sam wanted to go to South America, a fifty-dollar bill blew in his face. Have students write a story telling what they would do if the wind blew a fifty-dollar bill in their face.
- Teach the students about currency inflation. Have students research the costs of common items in Mark Twain's day and today. How much would that $50 be worth today?
- The book mentions that Twain "knew how important libraries were for children, so he gave one to the town." Have students search the Internet and find the library's website. Mark Twain Public Library in Redding Connecticut: http://www.marktwainlibrary.org/homeport/homeport_frm.html
