Social democracy, the most influential force in European politics for decades, is dying. And the result could be political fragmentation, instability and paralysis. Social democracy's support for generous asylum and immigration rules is written into the internationalist movement's DNA. But it's a position many of social democracy's one-time supporters no longer share. The constant flow of immigrants in recent decades coupled with Europe's refugee crisis has unnerved many lower-income voters. The European Foundation for Democracy and the European Office of the Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung would like to invite you to join our interactive panel discussion with seven national representatives, on Tuesday, 26th June 2018, starting at 16.00h at the European Office of the Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung. Europe of Freedom and Direct Democracy (EFDD or EFD²) was a Eurosceptic and populist political group in the European Parliament. The EFDD group was a continuation for the Eighth European Parliament of the Europe of Freedom and Democracy (EFD) group that existed during the Seventh European Parliament, with significant changes to group membership. In 2017, it was one of the seven political groups of the parliament. This group was opposed to European integration. Twenty-four out of its 47 MEPs were from
