

Around the World Through Books Presents

A TRAIN IN WINTER

by Caroline Moorehead

Reynolds history professor Christopher Thomas presents the story of women in the French Resistance during World War II, brought to life by the book
A Train in Winter.

In January 1943, 230 women of the French Resistance were sent to the death camps by the Nazis who had invaded and occupied their country. This is their story —a searing and unforgettable chronicle of terror, courage, defiance, survival, and the power of friendship. -harpercollins.com

The program is sponsored by the Reynolds Multicultural Enrichment Council and is free and open to the public. Light refreshments will be served.

The first half of "A Train in Winter" is necessarily taken up with setting the scene in France as the women became variously involved with the Resistance in its early stages and as the Nazi grip on their country grew ever tighter and, in its brutality, ever more capricious. French collaboration was widespread, especially among the police, who were seduced with improved pay and other privileges; eventually their Special Brigades pursued with "sophistication and tenacity" those whom the Nazis considered undesirable "the list, of course, was long and inclusive. Eagerly abetted by the French poli
