Law

Administration of Estates in Malaysia: Law & Procedure / Akmal Hidayah Halim
Kuala Lumpur : Sweet & Maxwell Asia, 2011
257p.
9789675040849

Administration of Estates in Malaysia: Law and Procedure is an up-to-date and highly readable book designed to provide a clear account of the theoretical and procedural framework relating to estates administration for both Muslims and non-Muslims in Malaysia. This book focuses on the jurisdiction, scope and procedure for estates administration by the High Court, the Small Estates Distribution Section and the Public Trust Corporation (Amanah Raya Berhad), these being the three main administrative bodies responsible for estates administration in Malaysia. The procedures are visualised in the form of charts to illustrate the process flow of the administration process and sample forms are provided to serve as quick references of the process.

This book includes discussion on the execution of trust and wills which has the effect of determining the jurisdiction of the administrative bodies. The discussion incorporates the latest amendment to the Small Estates (Distribution) Act 1955 which has come into force on September 1, 2009. This book also highlights the execution of wassiyah and hibah and provides a comparison between the concepts of charge under the National Land Code 1965 with the concept of al-Rahn in Islam.

Borneo Law Reports - Administrative Law - Betting, Gaming and Lottery / Editor TAN Kee Heng
Kuala Lumpur : Sweet & Maxwell Asia, 2011

The Borneo Law Reports covers all major areas of law with reference to the most recent developments in each of the areas reported. This work contains more than 500 full judgments (divided into seven volumes based on subject matter headings) decided by the High Court, Court of Appeal and the Federal Court that represent all the important cases originating from the High Court in Sabah and Sarawak from 1993 to 2011, many of which are hitherto unreported in any of the law reports in Malaysia.

Each case is uniquely accompanied by a Commentary that makes reference to the latest judicial decisions, both local and foreign, and the relevant legislative provisions with the aim of keeping researchers abreast of recent developments. Each detailed Commentary aids in the understanding of a case in the light of earlier or subsequent cases, thus enabling the researcher to have a better appreciation of the development and application of the law. The Commentary includes the Appeal Status that provides valuable update on the status of each case, where applicable, as it goes through any appeal that has been filed.

While the Borneo Law Reports contains cases from several areas of law that are peculiar to Sabah and Sarawak, and provides a very valuable collection of such cases for future reference, the publication also contains much case law on subjects that are applicable throughout Malaysia, including administrative law, banking law, bankruptcy, civil procedure, company law, constitutional law, contract, criminal law, criminal procedure, evidence, family law, revenue law and tort.

The Borneo Law Reports comes in handsome bound volumes with cases organised according to subject matter headings arranged alphabetically. Each case is supported by concise and well-structured catchwords as well as a succinct headnote with holdings referenced to the relevant parts of the case.

Politics

This work traces the early rise and subsequent decline of politically effective student activism in Malaysia. During the 1970s, the state embarked on a project of "intellectual containment" that both suppressed ongoing mobilization of university students and delegitimized further activism. That project has been notably successful in curbing student protest, erasing a legacy of past engagement, and stemming the production of potentially subversive new ideas. Innovative student proposals for reform that were once sanctioned and even welcomed (within bounds) are now illicit and discouraged, reflecting not only changes in Malaysia's political regime, but changes in the political cultural overall. This incisive study sheds new light on the dynamics of mobilization and on the key role of students and universities in postcolonial political development.

The research - based on sources that include interviews with dozens of past and present student activists, decades' worth of campus publications and other media, print and oral history archives, government reports, and autobiographies as well as other firsthand accounts - traces the intertwining paths of higher education and student activism, from the start of tertiary education in early twentieth-century Singapore and extending to present-day Malaysia. This in-depth study calls into question the conventional wisdom that Malaysian students - and Malaysians overall - have become "apathetic." That apparent disinterest is not inevitable or natural, but is, the book argues, the outcome of a systematic, sustained project of pacification and depoliticization by a moderately illiberal, ambitiously developmental state.

27 Shared prosperity in Malaysiaâ€™some evidence from the 2012 Household Income Survey .27 3. Harnessing Natural Resources.Â Following a strong performance in 2012, Malaysiaâ€™s economy hit a soft patch in the first quarter of 2013. Domestic demand kept growth buoyant in 2012 while the deceleration of growth in early 2013 mainly reflected weakness in external demand.Â The acceleration of investment growth has been a key feature of the recent growth trend. Driven by low interest rates, government guarantees and catalytic investments from non-financial public enterprises (NFPEs), gross fixed capital formation has reached the highest levels since the 1997/1998 financial crisis. â–° January 2012 Malaysia photographsâ€™Ž (3 C).
