Teaching Intercultural Communicative Competence through the Four Skills. Esther Usá3-Juan and Alicia Mart3nez-Flor Jaume I University. euso@ang.uji.es / aflor@ang.uji.es. ABSTRACT Nowadays, the most accepted instructional framework in second or foreign language (L2) programs is Communicative Language Teaching, whose main goal is to increase learners's™ communicative competence. This theoretical term means being able to use the linguistic system effectively and appropriately in the target language and culture. Therefore, it is the main goal of this paper to help language teachers better understand such a theoretical concept for improving their classroom practices. In so doing, we first provide an explanation of the theoretical concept of communicative competence. Teaching intercultural communicative competence to our students of Business English is all the more important today, with business going more and more international as an immediate consequence of the recent European integration and as a general consequence of the broader phenomenon of globalisation. Keywords: international communicative competence, international speaker, language, culture, knowledge, skills, attitudes. 2 Teaching Intercultural Communicative Competence In Business Classes 23 Motto: Culture is more often a source of conflict than of synergy.
